"Here and there on lonely points and high hills in Jackson, Mason and Putnam Counties of West Virginia are the burial places of our people. Most of the graves are marked but many sleep in unmarked graves. In the main they were a noble but humble people. They lived and had their day and were joined to their fathers in the better world."

PREFACE

Recognizing the fact that Mason County is losing much historical data and responding to a growing demand for family records by the genealogists, we began the task of compiling records of all our Mason County cemeteries.

Alas, much has been lost in the years past. We regret that this information was not recorded long ago. Many old cemeteries have disappeared due to neglect, weather and vandalism. Some that we remember as children are no longer visible. Many are covered with trees and brush. In some cases the land is being cultivated where there were once graves. Many of our early settlers lie in unmarked graves which have long been forgotten. Thus, it was with the idea of preserving the records of those which remain we began our work.

This compilation of Mason County Cemetery Records represents months of work. However, the days spent in travel, in research, in assembling the material and the hours of talking with elderly citizens were all a pleasure. Many pleasant days have been spent in traveling over the rural areas. Often taking an older person who was familiar with the area and the cemeteries, we would drive out over the hills of Mason County spending the day in search of these almost forgotten burial sites. Winter seemed the best time of year for finding these places but the roads would not always permit travel, in fact, some roads were not passable in mid summer. It was then that we found walking the only means of getting to these secluded spots. There were inumerable creeks to cross and many hills to climb. High points were the favorite burial places of our ancestors.

Local people have been very kind and helpful. Without their assistance we would not have been able to record this data.

Mason County Cemetery Inscriptions Vol. I and II were compiled by Mrs. Violette S. Machir who has also done Cooper District of Vol. III with the exception of five cemeteries on Ten Mile Creek.

It is hoped that our publications will cause others to become interested in old cemeteries and cemetery records. Preserving these records will be of benefit to future generations —that those who come after us might know the resting places of their Mason County ancestors.

LEWIS, SAMUEL, GRAVE

Near Arbuckle bridge which spans Thirteen Mile Creek

there is a fall or cataract two or three feet in height over which the water plunges. It is known as Lewis Falls. About the close of the last century there appeared in the Kanawha Valley a singular character giving his name as Samuel Lewis. He constructed a rude cabin on the south side of the river near the mouth of Big Sixteen, and here for several years he resided, leading the perfect life of a hermit, seeking no other society than that of his faithful dog. There is a large flat rock near the water's edge, close to the mouth of the creek, and upon this Lewis was accustomed to wash his scanty clothing. One day while thus engaged he was shot at by an Indian, the ball breaking his left arm.

Thus wounded he ran into the thick underbrush which then covered the bank and escaped into his cabin.

The next day Capt. Arbuckle, who was standing on the opposite bank and witnessed the shooting crossed over the river for the purpose of rendering assistance should the man still be alive. Upon entering the cabin he found him with his broken arm splinted and bandaged the best he could do it with one hand. The captain prevailed upon him to go home with him, which he reluctantly did. Here he remained for many weeks. He finally recovered but would never return to the south side of the river, neither would he consent to remain in the home of Wm. Arbuckle. He went out upon Thirteen Mile Creek to the falls. Here he selected a site and built a cabin, and here surrounded by a dense forest, made hideous by the howl of the wolf and the screams of the panther, amid the incessant roar of the rushing waters, he lived for many years, paying however a visit every few days to the home of his best friend, Capt. Arbuckle. But at last he fell sick, night came on, a burning fever scorched his brow; he determined to seek relief with a foot bath. He placed a large oven by the side of his cot, and after bathing lay down never to again arise without assistance. Days passed and he was forced to quench his burning thirst with the water in which he had bathed his feet, being unable to obtain any other. Capt. Arbuckle becoming alarmed at his continued absence, again went in search of him, and when he entered his cabin a sad sight met his gaze. Lying upon his rude cot was the hermit, who, from the effects of a scorching fever and a burning thirst, had grown delirious. The generous captain hastened home and returned with a team. He then removed the sufferer a second time to his own home. He grew better and his reason once more returned but only for a short time. Nature yielded and the Hermit of the Valley was no more. His remains were deposited on the river bank a short distance above the present residence of George Craig, Esq. and all that remains of him is his name which the cataract of Thirteen has ever since borne.

HENSON GRAVE

On the farm once owned by Daniel Sayre and presently owned by Clodus Buck, opposite what was known as the Hedrick house is a lone grave, that of a young man whose first name has been forgotten. This burial spot was selected by the young man because it was here that he had accepted Christ. His grave was marked by a tree on which his name and dates were cut. A rose bush was growing on the grave. Today no visible signs of the grave remain. Mr. Perry Sayre, age 97, remembers a Mr. and Mrs. Crouch living in the Hedrick house. He stated that Mrs. Crouch was a Henson from Arbuckle District. The Mr. Crouch was a son of Mrs. Bill Dunn by a former marriage.

SMITH CEMETERY (Deerlick)

On a knoll not far from the site of the old McDermitt Mill, on the farm now owned by Jay Stone but very early owned by the Smith family, was an early cemetery. Mr. Stone remembers that some years ago there was one stone left marking the grave of a Newell boy. Possibly a member of the Jacob (b. 1792) & Frances Newell family who were living here in 1850.

Mr. Stone also remembers hearing Mr. Scott Smith, the son of Strauther Smith telling about a huge tree growing on his grandfather's grave in this cemetery. Thus, it is believed to be the burial site of Samuel Smith who died in Union District in 1851. He was a native of Rockbridge Co., Va., coming to Mason Co. in 1796. In 1882 Samuel Smith and James Ringsbury built the first mill in Union District. This grist and saw mill was located at Waterloo where Darius V. Buxton built his mill 50 yrs. later. Samuel Smith married Jane Edwards about 1804. She was born in New York and died in Union District 1843. The children of this couple were Isaac, E., Ann, Gideon H., James, Mary, Strother, Jane, Samuel.

Samuel Smith served in Capt. Peter Steenbergen's Co. in the War of 1812. He was one of the first men to serve as Justice of the Peace in Mason Co.

Samuel Smith who came to Mason Co. in 1796 was the son of James Smith who came from England and served as a soldier under Cornwallis. He was wounded in the Battle of Bunker Hill and was taken prisoner. After the war he did not return to England but settled in Virginia and died in Rockbridge Co. of that state.

SMITH CHURCH CEMETERY

This church and the very old but well kept cemetery were named for the Samuel Smith family who settled here at an early date and whose descendants are numerous in this area.

In 1818 a Methodist minister, Francis Wilson preached the first sermon in Union District. Later in 1823 he organized the first church society at the home of Moses Knapp. Among the members were Samuel Smith, Moses Knapp, Jane Smith, Reuben Harrison, Jacob Newell, William Knapp, Isaac E. Smith, John Harrison, Andrew Waugh, Rachel Smith, William Hanson, and John Knapp.

In 1840 some of these people and a few others formed the Smith Methodist Church. The members at the time of its formation were Jacob Newell, John Newell, Preston Newell, Fannie Newell, Isaac Smith, Rachel Smith, William Knapp, Sr., William Knapp, Jr., Jane McDermitt, Strauther Smith, Samuel L. Smith, Gideon Smith, Elizabeth Smith, Burwell Smith, Charles Baker, Sarah Baker, and Abraham Baker. Rev. A. L. Lyda was the minister.

Here on this high point overlooking the valley of Thirteen Mile Creek they built a log church, which stood just inside the fence in the old part of the cemetery. This log structure served as their meeting house until about the year 1900 when it was razed and the present church was built. Samuel Stewart, a grandson of Wm. & Mary P. Stewart, a carpenter, constructed this building.

Near this site was the home of Alba (Allen) and Elizabeth Buck who came from Pennsylvania. (See Smith Ch. EARLY CEMETERY (on Kanawha)

Directly across from the Crookham Cemetery on the river bank was a burial spot. Ollie Knapp Raines remembers hearing the older residents speak of this cemetery being washed away by the river. Near this site John Greenlee built the first cabin in Cologne District, 1797. Half mile away William Greenlee, Sr. built the first brick house between the mouth of Coal River and Point Pleasant, 1832. In all probability these were the early Greenlee graves.

YAUGER CEMETERY

Off Route 62, on Debby Road, Ten Mile Creek. Located at the Yauger Church.

On Nov. 4, 1906 the Yauger Memorial U.B. Church was dedicated. Two acres of land had been purchased by Jeremiah Yauger and Washington Yauger for the purpose of a church and a public graveyard.

"These two men each gave fifty dollars to aid in the building of a church house.

Basil Yauger, son of J. Yauger, gave ten dollars, Charles Musgrave and wife gave ten dollars, making in all one hundred and twenty dollars from the Yauger family besides the two acres of land.

The church building was begun by the trustees, A. S. Riffle, Godfrey Schull and Charles Musgrave, but before the church building was completed the wife of J. Yauger and his son Basil and last of all himself were called into the Great Beyond and their bodies lie sleeping side by side, near the church house built to their memory. Mr. J. Yauger left by the will in the hands of the trustees four hundred dollars, the interest of which is only to be used in keeping up the church and graveyard.

The frame building 24x34 feet with arched ceiling over head and a tower for the bell was built at a cost of about seven hundred dollars, of which amount two hundred and twenty-five dollars had to be provided for on the day of dedication.

The day of dedication was bright and clear. A large congregation gathered to enjoy the services led by Rev. A. S. Riffle. A fine song service was led by Miss Ada Brown at the organ. Prayer was led by Rev. J. M. Hart.

Mention should be made of those who helped . . . Uncle Wash Yauger, Charles Musgrave, and wife, Godfrey Schul, A. S. Riffle, Willard Greenlee. Nancy McKinney, Mrs. Long, Eva Carson, M. S. Taylor, Frank Thornton, Allen Thornton, E. H. Burdette." (Point Pleasant Register, Nov. 28, 1906)

This church was destroyed by fire but immediately the people of this community set to work at rebuilding the church.

On the twenty-fourth day of Nov. 1918 the present church was dedicated.

ENOCH JEFFERS GRAVE

Located on the Pat Wilson farm just below the farm home and tenant house, on the hill above Route 62, near a huge stone is the grave of Enoch Jeffers. Jeffers, a resident of Union District, lived near Arbuckle on Thirteen Mile Creek. The date is unknown but during the Civil War, Enoch Jeffers was very ill with measles. After being ill for some time he was still not able to join the Union Army (co. unknown). Soldiers went to his home and forced him from his bed. In his weakened condition Jeffers walked with them until he became so tired and weary that he could go no farther. He fell in a state of exhaustion as they were passing the Cooper farm near Eight Mile Creek, now the Wilson Farm. It was here that he was shot by the soldiers and left dying. He was buried the next day where his body was found. Older residents state that the grave was found when the road was being built many years later. At this time the grave was made by the large stone.

Enoch Jeffers married Mary Ann McGuire in Mason County on Dec. 2, 1850. This couple had three children. Mary M. Jeffers died in childbirth on March 10, 1861. George Craig of Arbuckle who lived on the farm, presently owned by Gus Douglas, took the eldest child of Enoch Jeffers. He was educated with the Craig children, later became a Presbyterian minister.

Adjacent to the Woodbury Edwards farm on Ten Mile Creek there once stood a small church commonly known as Dead-fall. It was not affiliated with any denomination. Older residents of the area remember that fifty years ago there were a few graves visible near the church. It was located in a remote area that now can only be reached by walking. Today all trace of church and graves have disappeared.
